

SPRING

Here are some youth playing Hand Game - entertainment in our culture.

Culture days are held at the school grounds for the students.

Youth making dry meat at the culture camp.

Community members are cooking traditional food at the culture camp. Everyone eats and shares the food prepared.

Students keeping themselves busy by making beaded key chains.

Caribou dry meat made by students when there was a culture camp at McKenzie Lake.

Youth having fun playing a traditional game called Hand Game.

Students are taught to make dry meat at the culture camp.

Here the youths are enjoying Hand Games at the culture camp.

SUMMER

First Communion.

Confirmation at the Annual Pine Channel Pilgrimage.

The Annual Pine Channel Pilgrimage is held yearly in the first week of July.

Youth waiting to receive Confirmation at the Annual Pine Channel Pilgrimage.

We are fishing on a beautiful day on Lake Athabasca.

This is the Virgin Mary shrine outside the church.

Food is ready to eat a traditional meal outdoors.

We visit the Virgin Mary shrine at McKenzie Lake.

A Year in the Life of Fond du Lac Identity & Culture

Tools 2 – Community health and wellness indicators reflecting daily life in Saskatchewan's isolated far North: Implications for program planning and evaluation.

RESEARCH TEAM

Tammy Lidguerre and Flora Augier - Fond du Lac Denesuline First Nation
 Sylvia Abonyi - SPHERU, University of Saskatchewan
 Bonnie Jeffery - SPHERU, University of Regina
 Brandon Anthony - Central European University, Budapest
 Jennifer Poudrier - University of Saskatchewan
 June Anonson - University of Saskatchewan
 Georgina MacDonald, Vince Robillard and Fay Michayluk - Athabasca Health Authority
 Evelyn Throassie - Black Lake Denesuline First Nation
 Diana Fedosoff - SPHERU, University of Saskatchewan

Photographers

Cherina Adam, Noreen Janvier, Tammy Lidguerre, Sylvia Marten, Allan Mercredi, Roseanna Noel, and Jennifer Paquette

Project funded by Canadian Institutes of Health Research (Institute of Aboriginal Peoples' Health) Grant # 173106

FALL

Head Start to grade 12 Halloween costume contest at Father Gamache Memorial School.

Having fun at the annual Halloween Dance at the local Band hall.

One of our Elders enjoying traditional food while picnicking.

This is a caribou head being skinned and then cut up so it can be cooked for a traditional meal.

Our smoke house is used to smoke meat, fish, and other wild foods.

Here are some of our Elders enjoying an afternoon of BINGO. Socializing is part of our culture.

WINTER

This was taken at our Winter Carnival - The King and Queen Trapper event.

At the King and Queen Trapper event. Who is going to make a fire the fastest?

Someone out checking the net on a cold January afternoon.

This picture was taken at the annual Community Christmas Supper.

In memory of.....

Making bannock to eat with meals is part of our culture.

At Elders Day, ladies share their sewing talents.

Elders Day - an afternoon of sewing and socializing.